STATE OF ORISSA

SHRI SHANKHAKSHETRAM, PURI.

This sacred tract is said to resemble in shape of a conch-shell, "shankha" which is one of the four 'ayudhas' of Vishnu, others being 'chakra' (discus), 'gada' (mace) and 'padma' (lotus). Puri is known as Shankhakhshetra, and Bhubaneswar, Jajapur, Konarka are respectively called Chakrakhshetra, Gadakhshetra and Padmakhshetra.

Prema dhāma devam eva naumi gaurasundaram

The luster of His fair body is brighter than a million brilliant mirrors of gold. Of such sweetness is the fragrance of His body that the aromatic lotus and parijata flowers humbly offer their prayers of worship. Millions of cupids, shocked out of their pride, swoon at His lotus feet, unable to bear the sight of His unparalleled beauty. His limbs are alive rasa moods of love that emerge and flow continuously from His beautiful form. I sing with joy the unending glories of my sweet Lord, my golden Gaurasundara, the one and only divine abode of pure love.

We have plenty of prasadam from Jagannath Temple for you all...

A large crowd of people, many in white and colorful traditional Indian attire, is gathered on a grassy riverbank. In the foreground, three young boys are looking towards the water. The scene is set outdoors with trees in the background and a body of water in the foreground.
